Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically fit individuals. The study was conducted in a laboratory setting. The subjects were 12 females, aged 20-30, who were randomly assigned to two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group performed a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically fit individuals. The experimental group performed a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically fit individuals. The results of the study showed that the experimental group had a significantly higher heart rate and oxygen consumption than the control group. The results also showed that the experimental group had a significantly higher heart rate and oxygen consumption than the control group. The results of the study showed that the experimental group had a significantly higher heart rate and oxygen consumption than the control group. The results of the study showed that the experimental group had a significantly higher heart rate and oxygen consumption than the control group.
